

Keep Your Business Firmly Grounded with the Right Flooring

There are a number of things to consider in developing the best flooring solution for your specific business needs.

POI

BUDGET

Product costs can vary greatly depending upon quality and style. Installation costs also factor in the complexity of the design, existing flooring conditions, whether the space is clear as well as any other unique site conditions. We'll help you do the math so that your project stays on budget.

PROJECT TIMING

While most flooring manufacturer lead times for their entire product lines are approximately 7-9 weeks, all have optional 2-3 week Quick Ship offerings with a more limited range of available product styles and colours. We'll be sure to present only those options that ensure we meet your required project timelines.

PRODUCT PERFORMANCE/ LIFECYCLE

What are your product lifecycle expectations (i.e. do you need it to last 10+ years or are you relocating in 3 years)? Performance requirements also vary by application. Commercial carpet tile foot traffic classifications range from moderate to heavy to severe. We'll ensure that the products we're presenting meet the performance needs within your space.

ENVIRONMENTAL & SUSTAINABILITY CONCERN

Some flooring manufacturers are further along than others in reducing the environmental impact of their products and operations. We can help you distinguish between clever marketing and reality.

WARRANTY

Not all warranties are the same. For instance, what does a "Limited Lifetime Warranty" really mean? For any given manufacturer, we can assist you with interpreting the warranty fine print.

DESIGN

Nice looking flooring is a must; however it should ideally be considered after you have narrowed down your search based upon the above criteria. A good flooring specialist will help you select commercial flooring that works with your office's design scheme and is also practical for your space's purposes.

Our team will work closely with you in developing a flooring solution that's unique to your needs while staying within your budget.
